Lauren Amador-Cruz, age 10, wrote The Unfound Blanky, which starred Sofiya Akilova and Lisa Benavides as a fox and a lion forced to battle a really tall Mother of Snakes puppet. Sarah Krohn directed.

In Ayman Musa’s Weird Friends, directed by Jeremy Stoller, Cec Fernandez and Jose-Maria Aguila were a robotic zombie terminator and the king of the undead. And, yes, they were wonderfully weird.

THE FALL 2015 PLAYMAKING SHOWS

This past December, after being assigned the finest actors we could find to work for free, the newest batch of Project kids journeyed to Stone Ridge, NY for a weekend Playwriting retreat. As usual, the 9 scripts were brilliant! Here are some photos taken at the dress rehearsal.

THE HOST FAMILIES

Bobby Cannavale was a guy who had been adopted by ducks and Mozhan Mamnou was a girl who’d been raised by dragons. This led to serious conflict in Derek Rey’s Two People in a Different Family, which John Sheehy directed.

Life’s Complicated, by Selena Sanchez, was a drama about a rich girl (Carra Patterson) and a homeless musician (Joe Paulik) who almost found romance. Emma Weinstein directed and although Spike the dog was very well-behaved, even foam-core animals stole the show.

The Wings and the D.J., written by Beyonce Thomas, told the bittersweet tale of a young waitress (Anielie Goldman) and her mean chef of a dad (Bhavesh Patel). In the end, she made her own mechanical wings and escaped to her mom. Chelsea Hackett directed.

Genny and Mark, written by Bryanna Ohene Kari Kari and directed by Alexandra O’Daly, featured a king (Frank Wood) who was too busy to attend a Sweet 16 party for his daughter (Edie Falco). Tory Delahunt was a lady-in-waiting.
Ricardo Currin’s Oblivious Frenemies (one of our favorite titles in 2015) had Ricardo and Stephen O’Reilly as roommates who found out that they were super arch-enemies in their secret identities outside the apartment.

Gage Simmons explored the friendship of a cell phone (Joe Tapper) and a heap of peanut butter (Bjorn DuPaly) in Peanut Butter and Phones, directed by Kareem Lucas.

The Internet Is In Your Mind, by Lily Kuzminski, cast Nehassaiu DeGannes and Mallory Portnoy as manifestations of actual apps and websites. Rebecca Martinez directed.

Carl Hendrick Louis and Jonathan Bock were the good and bad sides of a schoolboy’s conscience in Leonel Perez’s The Bad and The Good, directed by Korey Jackson.

Charlie O’Rourke and David Ortiz played rivals in a ravaged, post-apocalyptic landscape in David’s Bloodshed and Tears. David’s character eventually sacrificed himself for the sake of Charlie’s character.
Jim the Jaguar (Ka-Ling Cheung) and Tia the Turtle (Karen Tineo) ran themselves ragged in a race over all 7 continents in Karen’s Wristwatches and Family Tragedies.

Ezekiel Albarron’s Paid Off was a caper play in which Jeremy Rishe was the bumbling accomplice of Ezekiel’s mastermind as they attempted to knock over a bank. George Babiaik, in the background, was a surly middle-aged man. The role was a real stretch for him.

Joshua Gomez’s What Makes the Two of Us was a slice-of-life park bench drama about two friends who both happened to have moms that needed medical help. Rodney Richardson was the older friend.

Arden and Tabatha was Chyanne Peña’s spin on the classic “let’s-trade-lives” scenario. Arden was the girl from the tropics who wanted to experience colder climes and Ashley Marie Ortiz was her North Country counterpart who wanted to bask in the sun and SCUBA dive.

PLAYBACK, CONTINUED:

For info on “Laughing Matters” contact John Sheehy at sheehy@52project.org or (212) 333-5252.
Joseph Cruz (3rd from left) was a young up-and-comer being trained by Kayla Matos’s character (4th from left) to go for The Power Dance Walker’s Gold in the play of that name written by Lucas Kavner and directed by Tina Chilip. But would he use the performance-enhancing, bone-crumbling “juice?” John Sheehy, Natalie Hirsch, Charles Pisano, and George Babiak (all seen above) joined in for some Power Dance Walking along the way.

In Polar Bear Service and Repair, by Tim J. Lord, Adam Alkindi and Justin Bannister played a couple of misfits who join forces for a road trip. Unfortunately, they wind up in Churchill, Manitoba, the polar bear capital of the world. Amanda Tralle, Karen Tineo, and Charles Pisano played the bears while Sean Kenealy directed.

Bamba Thiam and Bryan Lopez were a pair of novice skydivers determined to scatter the ashes of a deceased friend. What We Do, We Do For True was written by Beto O’Byrne and directed by Sathya Sridharan.

Lynn Rosen’s The Best/Worst Day gave us a glimpse into Disneyland workers’ lives. Alyssia Feliciano was a petulant Cinderella and Kayla Ortiz was a naively enthusiastic Cruella de Vil. Arielle Goldman directed.

Sabrina Caldona and Lambert Whitney got to see what the 60’s were like in Flower Children. Kerry Whigham directed Melisa Tien’s ode to the Beach Boys.

THE 2016 TWO-ON-TWO’S
Every January we line up 6 pairs of kids and match each team with an adult playwright and an adult director. The plays were rehearsed in Nyack, NY, over the Martin Luther King, Jr. Day weekend and performed Jan. 29-31, 2016 at the Five Angels Theater.

THE 2-ON-2’S JAN. 2016 - kids perform with kids, adults write & direct

Strangers on a Train (you can’t copyright a title!), written by Cate Yu and directed by Colette Robert, was about the rendezvous of a secret agent (Wilhelmina Ohene Kari Kari) and the world’s finest jewel thief (Christin Tetteh). Yes, it happened on a train.

THE NICK OF TIME: THE PUNCTUAL PLAYS

WELCOME, SHAUNICE AND TAHNIE!

Well, we will miss Laura Lane (who now hangs her hat at Planned Parenthood) and Melissa Gundling (holding down a desk at Herrick, Feinstein LLP) but they will always remain special friends. Taking their places are two NEW special friends who are not only cool, but photogenic.

Shaunice Jordan – Manager of Individual Giving

Shaunice signed on to the Project staff in February, 2016. She comes to us most recently from Purchase College where she was the Coordinator of Advancement for The Performing Arts Center. She comes from Kansas City, Missouri, just like Tech Director Tim J. Lord! They are already having a competition to see who knows more of the most cool, most obscure, and most delicious barbecue places in KC. She says, “I’m winning.”

Shaunice holds a BA in Psychology, ’04 and a MA in Higher Education Administration, ’10 both from the University of Missouri – Kansas City. She knows a lot about the East Coast, too: she worked as a Resident Director for six years at The University of Southern Maine in Portland, Maine and at Emerson College in Boston, Mass. Apart from The Project, Shaunice is a vocalist experienced in a variety of genres from opera/classical to R&B and jazz. She loves to travel, shop, and collect photographic prints. Shaunice is thrilled to bring her experience and enthusiasm for art to The Project!

Tahnee Cadrez – Development and Management Associate

Tahnee Cadrez is our newest newbie. She just joined us in March of 2016 and hails from the scorching desert of El Centro, California. She holds a Bachelor of Arts degree in Visual and Performing Arts Studies from the University of Southern California and acted as Executive Producer at Cardinal Theatre Productions during her time there. She spent 3 years living in Los Angeles and decided last August to make the big leap to the East Coast. Her main artistic focus has been playwriting, for which she won the Dilling Yang fellowship at UC Santa Barbara in 2012.

Tahnee just recently returned from a trip to Europe, where she visited Paris for Christmas, Barcelona for New Year’s, and London for good measure. One highlight of England was seeing a genuine “panto” with Verne Troyer (remember “Mini-Me?”). She loves to cook and she loves dogs, but she has no intention of cooking dogs. Hey, there’s Spike the Dog, again (see p. 1)!

The Project’s Smart Partners are keenly aware of when the Christmas season is upon us because that’s when they start preparing their performances for the Annual Smart Partner Open Mic Show, held this year on December 21.

There were many terrific acts: Kaylee and HannaH showed a mysterious movie they made, Nicole and Jillian had a lip-sync battle, Emmanuel and Tim did a fast-paced puppet show, Ginaia, Charly, Jayleen, and Alyssa premiered a circus-themed film, Karen and Lauren presented a video about the eruption of a model volcano, and Justin and Eric recited inspirational sayings. The most dramatic of all the acts was Lakshmi and January’s reenactment of the climactic scene in “Titanic” (seen at right). It was pretty amazing.

HEY, GROWN-UPS! JOIN THE PROJECT!

Are you crazy about The 52nd Street Project and wonder how you can become even MORE involved with us over the next year? Well, why not consider becoming a member of Crew 52, the Project’s adult membership program?

Crew 52 will increase your access and exposure to the Project and get you awesome benefits such as early access to show tickets, discounts at local businesses, and invitations to exclusive member-only events. Plus, you get a customized Crew 52 membership card! Don’t worry, it’s not some absurd foam-core monstrosity. It’s on card stock, sized to fit a wallet, and it’s LAMINATED!

Membership in Crew 52 is $250 a year (and only $175 if you’re in the under-40 crowd). All donations are 100% tax-deductible and allow us to continue to run our programs, provide our kids fun and exciting learning opportunities, and keep the lights on!

Feel free to contact Shaunice Jordan, our new Manager of Individual Giving (meet her on page 5) at jordan@52project.org if you have any questions about joining, or visit the Project website to learn more. Become a member today!

LOTS-O-LANTERNS
Here are some of the Smart Partner teams with the pumpkins they carved last Halloween. They created some incredible orange sculptures (as well as an incredible orange mess) and everyone had a terrific time.

PUMPKIN-CARVING PHOTOS BY GRB

8 PROJECT UPDATE, MARCH 2016
During the February school break, three budding auteurs spent a week at the Project creating original films with adult “cinematurses” and professional actors. A fourth team did their own film on their own time! Here’s what they made:

WORK OF ART

Carl Hendick Louis and Wrenn Schmidt are two foreign visitors (from Norway and Australia) applying for the same job. Ginaija Hires made the movie and played the boss. Charly Evon Simpson (G.’s Smart Partner) was the cinematurge.

UNEXPECTED

Emma Ramos is Japan’s greatest jewel thief and David Costabile is assigned to stop her. After realizing they are brother and sister, they join forces and flee Japan on a private plane with Mom and Dad. Maria Martinez wrote, shot, and played the stewardess while George Babiak was her grown-up mentor.

THE WEIRD RELATIONSHIP OF BROTHER AND SISTER

Tina Chilip and Jose-Maria Aguila are cave-dwelling siblings who move into a construction site. Andry Moreno was the kid creator and played a “Pilgrim Thief.” His cinematurge was Michael Stahl-David.

THE CRANE PROJECT

Sofia Santoni (right) and her Smart Partner Grace Rex were the “indie” entry. The film documented their efforts to give an origami crane to everyone they met. They even gave one to local grocer Sonny (left). He liked it!

Below are some candid shots of moments during production. All of the films can be seen on your computer, tablet, or smartphone.

Just visit www.52project.org and look under the “Kid’s Stuff” menu.
STORYTELLING

Shortly before we moved into the new Clubhouse six years ago, we decided to offer our kids opportunities to learn skills beyond the writing and acting we were already teaching. We started many new classes like Filmmaking, Poetry, Set Design, Dancemaking, Photography, and Stage Combat and collectively named them “New Platforms.” Now we’ve just added a new one!

Storytelling is a class developed and taught by Program Director Garrett Kim that creates performances from personal recollections and other sources a la “The Moth.” Kids are matched with adult partners (also known as “storyfurges”) and meet for 7 weeks to perfect the craft of spinning a good yarn. The kids presented their final stories at the Five Angels on Nov. 20 and the grown-ups were on hand to lend their support.

Cat-Dash-Trophe
Ethan Zenteno borrowed a story about the search for a lost cat from his adult pal Greg Hildreth.

Why Did I Decide to Do Flips Today?
Charde Harvey flippantly told a scary story about acrobatics gone awry. Charly Evon Simpson coached her.

The Adventure of No-Name
Jayleen Velez chose to tell a fictional tale about a doughnut (we like doughnuts). Therese Barbato helped.

Hat-Trick or Treat
Milen Tokarev skillfully blended the twin worlds of Hockey and Halloween with the help of KeLyn Jones.

The Day of the Fog
Natasha Davis told of how hard it is to learn to drive, especially in fog, in a story inspired by Rachel Bonds.

Handling Anxiety Featuring Connor
Brandon Leon told about the pitfalls of friendship. Nic Grelli was his companion through the process.
Liz Bell, our Education Director, has a baby! And, of course, so does her guy, Andrew Stein! Enza Bell Stein was born in New York City on March 1 at 1:30 in the afternoon. She was 8 lbs., 4 oz. and showed up with a full head of hair. Liz says she looks just like Andrew... if Andrew didn’t have a beard!

We haven’t seen a photo of the little dude yet, but Bobby Cannavale (seen on page 1) and actress Rose Byrne had a little boy named Rocco on February 1.

And while we’re talking beards, Sofiya Akilova, last seen as a plucky, snake-killing fox in our December Playmaking show (see page 1) got married to impressively bearded (not to mention mustachioed) Alex Harvey on February 17.

Jeanine Serralles and Drew Cortese welcomed Antonia Iris Cortese on December 18, 2015. She was 5 lbs., 13 oz. Jeanine was scheduled to be in our December Playmaking show but had to drop out at the last minute because, well, Antonia was coming!

We are saddened to report the loss of our old buddy Keith Benjamin, a long-time friend of the Project who helped us out with sound designs, load-ins, backstage crew assignments, and many other things over the years.

Keith designed sets as a kid, studied jazz drums at the Berklee College of music, studied acting with Sanford Meisner, helped create special effects for Robocop II and other movies, and went on to become a produced playwright, a published writer, and an expert on all things piratical.

He was a great husband and best friend to Anne O’Sullivan, another terrific Project pal, and we send our best to her.
What she does for us - Nicole has directed many, many plays at the Project and was our official Teen Shakespeare Director for a couple of seasons. She led the Teen Ensemble’s production of Two Gentlemen of Verona and shared directorial duties with Emma Weinstein on Midsummer Night’s Dream. Nicole goes way back with the Project, having first met us as an intern in the summer of 1998.

Occupation - Theater Director. (Nicole is currently working on Our Lady of Kibeho at Smith College.)

Why she does what she does - “I love telling stories and working with people.”

Hobbies - “Reading books. Running. Dancing in the living room.”

Last book read - “We Wish to Inform You That Tomorrow We Will be Killed With Our Families” by Philip Gourevitch. It’s for a play I’m working on. While the subject matter was hard to read about, I do enjoy reading non-fiction. People do wonderful things and people do terrible things and for me, it’s important to study both.”

Most recent accomplishment - “I have a plant that is actually growing and I’ve kept it alive for several months.”

Best Project Memory - “There are so many! But I will never forget the first teen ensemble trip to Banff (For Two Gents). It was spectacular.”

Credo - “It will work out.”

Advice to kids - “Be kind.”

Place of birth - “Kingston, Jamaica.”

Habitat - “An apartment in Brooklyn with Tim J. Lord (the Project’s Tech Director) and Henry the Dog.”

Favorite thing about the Project - “The people.”

On Flyer Bars - “Eat them. Share them.”

TRIP SNAPZ!

Bridgehampton: The Playback crew found new perspectives on the beach in October...

...and almost didn’t find their way out of the Maize at Fairview Farm

Stone Ridge, NY: Kids and adults alike had a great time at SkateTime...

...’cause that’s the way we roll...

Nyack: The Two-on-Two teen actors took a break from rehearsing by skating at Bear Mountain.

...and you know the weekend was a success when the kids sleep all the way home.
